ADDITIONS TO THE DANDELION (TARAXACUM) FLORA OF SOMERSET

S. J. LEACH, A. J. RICHARDS AND J. WEBB

In recent years the Botanical Society of Britain and Ireland (BSBI) has held an annual 'Dandelion Workshop' somewhere in Britain, usually in a county where the Taraxacum flora is poorly known. In 2016 it was the turn of Somerset; the workshop, held 15-18 April, was based in Taunton and hosted by the Somerset Rare Plants Group (SRPG). Places visited in S. Somerset (VC5) included Minehead, Dunster beach, Ash Priors Common, Thurlbear Wood and several other sites along the northern fringe of the Blackdown Hills, and in N. Somerset (VC6) Middle Hope and Sand Point. The meeting was led by the national expert/referee for Taraxacum, John Richards, and was attended by many Somerset botanists along with a sprinkling of competent and enthusiastic 'taraxacologists' from further afield such as John Day, Leslie Tucker, Mark Lynes and Claudia Ferguson-Smyth. An account of the meeting, including the daily itinerary and details of sites visited, is published elsewhere (Leach 2017).

Listed below, in alphabetical order, are first county/vice-county records of Taraxacum species made during the workshop, together with other county/vice-county 'firsts' collected either before or after that workshop. For species for which several records were made, only the first is listed here. Also included are a few earlier (and hitherto unpublished) first records that have come to light since the workshop and found to be missing from the national Taraxacum Database and/or BSBI Distribution Database.

Records with voucher specimens lodged in the SANHS herbarium are annotated TTN. This herbarium used to be stored at Taunton Castle, in the county museum (now Museum of Somerset), but is now at the Somerset Heritage Centre under the day-to-day care of the South West Heritage Trust. Specimens held in the herbarium can be examined by prior arrangement with the curator, Dennis Parsons.

A note on recorders: specimens from the workshop itself are shown merely as having been collected by 'BSBI/SRPG Dandelion Workshop', rather than by any particular individual, as the original finder of a given specimen was usually unclear. For specimens gathered before or after the workshop, names of recorders are either given in full or denoted by their initials as follows: RFitzG, Ro FitzGerald; GL, Graham Lavender; SJL, Simon Leach; JW, Jeanne Webb.

Apart from one record from VC6 (of Taraxacum hamatulum), all records listed below are from material collected since 2000 and determined by John Richards (AJR). Twenty-six of the 49 species catalogued here were collected for the first time in Somerset during 2016, of which 17 were gathered during the weekend of the workshop. Dates refer to records made in 2016 unless otherwise stated. As at 1 March 2017, the Taraxacum flora of Somerset stands at 116 species, 89 in VC5 and 84 in VC6.
