Supporting data in respect of the paper

Somerset ichthyosaurs and Quaker philanthropy: Alfred Gillett, William Stephens Clark and the geological museum in The Crispin Hall, Street

M. A. Taylor and C. J. Berry

This paper can be found in the Proceedings of the Somerset Archaeological and Natural History Society for 2022

Volume 166, 139-80; https://sanhs.org/proceedings-volume-166-2022/

© 2023 Somerset Archaeological and Natural History Society and the authors.

APPENDIX

Appleby, R. M., 1979. 'The affinities of Liassic and later ichthyosaurs', Palaeont. 22, 921-46.

Benson, R. B. J., Evans, M. and Druckenmiller, P. S., 2012. 'High diversity, low disparity and small body size in plesiosaurs (Reptilia, Sauropterygia) from the Triassic–Jurassic boundary', PLoS ONE 7:3, doi:10.1371/journal.pone.0031838C.

Benson, R. B. J., Evans, M. and Taylor, M. A., 2015. 'The anatomy of Stratesaurus (Reptilia, Plesiosauria) from the lowermost Jurassic of Somerset, United Kingdom', J. Vertebrate Paleont. 35:4, doi: 10.1080/02724634.2014.933739 and supplementary material.

Lomax, D. R. and Massare, J. A., 2017. 'Two new species of Ichthyosaurus from the lowermost Jurassic (Hettangian) of Somerset, England', Papers in Palaeont. 3, 1-20.

–, 2018. 'A second specimen of Protoichthyosaurus applebyi (Reptilia: Ichthyosauria) and additional information on the genus and species', Paludicola 11(4), 164-78.

–, and Mistry, R. T., 2017. 'The taxonomic utility of forefin morphology in Lower Jurassic ichthyosaurs: Protoichthyosaurus and Ichthyosaurus', J. Vertebrate Paleont. 37:5, doi: 10.1080/02724634.2017.1361433.

Lomax, D. R., Porro, L. B. and Larkin, N. R., 2019. 'Descriptive anatomy of the largest known specimen of Protoichthyosaurus prostaxalis (Reptilia: Ichthyosauria) including computed tomography and digital reconstruction of a three-dimensional skull', PeerJ 7, doi: 10.7717/peerj.6112.

McGowan, C., 1973. 'Differential growth in three ichthyosaurs: Ichthyosaurus communis, I. breviceps and Stenopterygius quadriscissus (Reptilia, Ichthyosauria)', Life Sciences Contributions, Royal Ontario Museum 93, 1-21.

–, 1974a. 'A revision of the longipinnate ichthyosaurs of the Lower Jurassic of England, with descriptions of two new species (Reptilia, Ichthyosauria)', Life Sciences Contributions, Royal Ontario Museum 97, 1-37.

–, 1974b. 'A revision of the latipinnate ichthyosaurs of the Lower Jurassic of England (Reptilia, Ichthyosauria)', Life Sciences Contributions, Royal Ontario Museum 100, 1-30.

Massare, J. A. and Lomax, D. R., 2016a. 'Composite skeletons of Ichthyosaurus in historic collections', Paludicola 10(4), 207-40.

–, 2016b. 'A new specimen of Ichthyosaurus conybeari (Reptilia, Ichthyosauria) from Watchet, Somerset, England, U. K., and a reexamination of the species', J. Vertebrate Paleont. 36:5, doi: 10.1080/02724634.2016.1163264.

–, 2018. 'A taxonomic reassessment of Ichthyosaurus communis and I. intermedius and a revised diagnosis for the genus', J. Systematic Palaeont. 16:3, 263-77.

–, 2019. ‘Hindfins of Ichthyosaurus: effects of large sample size on “distinct” morphological characters’, Geol. Mag. 156, 725-44.

–, and Klein, A., 2015. ‘A large forefin of Ichthyosaurus from the U. K., and estimates of the size range of the genus’, Paludicola 10:2, 119-35.

Massare, J. A., Wahl, W. R. and Lomax, D. R., 2021. ‘Narial structures in Ichthyosaurus and other Early Jurassic ichthyosaurs as precursors to a completely subdivided naris’, Paludicola 13:2, 128-39.

Storrs, G. W. and Taylor, M. A., 1996. ‘Cranial anatomy of a new plesiosaur genus from the lowermost Lias (Rhaetian/Hettangian) of Street, Somerset, England’, J. Vertebrate Paleont. 16, 403-20.